Assessing food insecurity:
Different numbers, different objectives

The number of undernourished reported in SOFI and the number of people facing crisis-level, acute food insecurity reported in the GFCR are not comparable. If people facing acute food insecurity get the assistance they need, their situation will not become chronic.