

LATIN AMERICAN AND CARIBBEAN FORESTRY COMMISSION

THIRTY-THIRD SESSION

26 - 30 June 2023

Input to FAO governance

Suggested action by the Commission:

The Committee is invited to encourage Members to:

- continue to actively support the Regional Forestry Commissions as the main instruments in forestry for linking the global and regional levels under the FAO Strategic Framework 2022-31;
- develop recommendations for the Regional Conference, for the COFO agenda, and the programme priorities, in particular regional, for FAO in forestry.

The Committee is invited to recommend FAO to:

- ensure that recommendations are presented to the secretariats of COFO and the Regional Conferences;
- share the recommendations of the Commission with other Regional Forestry Commissions.

I. Introduction

1. The 42nd Session of the FAO Conference, following the recommendation of the 166th Session of the FAO Council, endorsed the Strategic Framework 2022-31 (Strategic Framework) as a means to achieve more efficient, inclusive, resilient and sustainable agrifood systems. The Conference also appreciated that the Strategic Framework is aligned with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), stressing the role of the four betters (better production, better nutrition, better environment, better life), in achieving the 2030 Agenda and FAO's three Global Goals of Members and requesting stronger linkages between the SDGs and the four betters.

2. The Strategic Framework defines FAO's strategic vision in terms of its contribution to transformative and structural changes at global, regional and country levels. It is being implemented through 20 Programme Priority Areas (PPAs) which are responding directly to the recommendations of the Regional Conferences and Technical Committees. RFCs provide a platform for discussing progress in the implementation of the Strategic Framework and making further recommendation for future implementation of work, focusing in particular on the regional and national levels.

3. The current document outlines opportunities for the Commission to provide inputs to FAO governance by advising on topics and agenda items for the forthcoming sessions of the Committee on Forestry (COFO) and the Regional Conference for Latin America and the Caribbean (RLC), as well as identifying actions for FAO's work in forestry, aligned with the four betters, the programme priority areas, the Global Forest Goals (GFGs) of the United Nations Strategic Plan for Forests 2017-2030 (UNSPF), as well as with to the FAO Forestry strategic planning (Item 6.2).

II. Preparations for the 27th Session of Committee on Forestry (COFO)

4. The revised Multi-year Programme of Work of COFO (MYPOW)<sup>1</sup> continues to place strong emphasis on the collaboration between the RFCs and the Committee and maintains the discussion with statutory bodies as a standing agenda item of its future sessions. During the last several sessions of COFO this agenda item was implemented as a dialogue with heads of statutory bodies including the six RFCs, Silva Mediterranea, COFO Working Group on Dryland Forests and the Advisory Committee on Sustainable Forest Industries.

5. The collaboration between COFO and the RFCs is also seen as a key element of the effective work planning, which enables aligning agendas, identifying common items and developing meeting calendars to allow for timely input to the Regional Conferences and to COFO.

6. The RFCs are increasingly recognized as important venues for considering regional realities, opportunities and challenges related to other forest-relevant fora, including the United Nations Forum on Forests (UNFF), who discussed the opportunities offered by the RFCs at its 14th and 15th session. The UNSPF identifies RFCs as regional bodies who, together with other regional bodies, provide a crucial bridge between international policies and national actions.

7. The Commission is invited to provide its recommendations for the agenda of the 27th Session of COFO, which will be held from 22 to 26 July 2024, using the format presented in Annex 1. In doing so the Commission may wish to consider similar recommendations of other RFCs and build synergies to the extent possible. To enhance coordination across the RFCs the Commission may also wish to invite FAO to immediately share its recommendations with the secretariats of the other RFCs and invite its Executive Committee to further enhance coordination through the COFO Steering Committee.

III. Input to the Regional Conferences

8. Noting that several untapped opportunities exist, the last three sessions of COFO paid particular attention to strengthening the role of the RFCs in the regional policy dialogues and made several recommendations in this regard. At its 26th session, COFO session stressed the need for the RFCs “to have a more policy-relevant role in the FAO Regional Conferences, and invited FAO to support further integration of important regional forest-related matters”.

9. Due to the increasing attention to forest issues in multiple contexts including, inter alia, agrifood systems transformation, poverty eradication, climate change, biodiversity, land degradation, food insecurity, the RFCs have unique opportunities to bring forestry issues to the focus of regional policy dialogues by making recommendations for the agenda of the respective Regional Conferences.

10. The Commission may wish to use Annex 2 for presenting its recommendations and for the sake of coherence, also inform other RFCs, in a timely manner, of its recommendations.

IV. Input to FAO’s programme of work in Forestry

11. In 2023, many RFCs meet for the first time under the FAO Strategic Framework 2022-31 and this provides a unique opportunity for making recommendations built on the four better and the PPAs. Furthermore, the UNFF identified RFCs as “important partners in efforts to implement the strategic plan and achieve its global forest goals and targets”.

12. The Commission may wish to continue to pay attention to the feasibility of the work programme and identify priorities clearly, indicating also where priorities should change. While identification of new priorities has proven very efficient and well-coordinated, there is room for further improvement in identifying areas of de-emphasis, especially when earlier work has achieved the expected objectives and should be terminated or continued as a lower priority, using the template presented in Annex 3.
