

Contributions to obsolete pesticide disposal since 1991

(values in millions of US dollars)

Since 1991, governments led by the Netherlands and Denmark have contributed over US$ 24 million to cleaning up obsolete pesticides. To date, the chemical industry has provided only US$300 000, all from Shell. Another US$ 100 million is needed to clean up obsolete pesticide stocks in Africa alone.