

RAW POULTRY DENSITY

Combining the previous two maps on households holding poultry and average flock size yields the adjacent map of raw poultry density.

The highest density of poultry occurs in the Red River delta, an area of high human population density. The Red River delta also has a high density of poverty.

A second area of high poultry density is evident in the South, particularly around Ho Chi Minh City. Finally, poultry are concentrated along the coastal zones of the country.

Map produced by: M. Epprecht