06-07 JUNE, 2005

Facilitated by:
Ms. Monica Kapiriri, Regional facilitator

KIDEPO HALL, IMPERIAL BEACH RESORT HOTEL
ENTEBBE, UGANDA

1. BACKGROUND

- 1.1. The inspiration for an International NGO consortium in ARD can be traced back to the Global Forum on Agricultural Research (GFAR) 2003 conference, in Dakar. The conference brought together 33 NGOs from the 7 regions of GFAR<sup>1</sup>. One of the outputs of the meeting were the nominated Regional focal points, that were mandated to help facilitate communication, coordinate activities and linking NGOs to the regional and sub 'regional forums. The meeting also identified key priority areas that fed into the GFAR Business Plan 2004-2006.
- 1.2. GFAR Secretariat convened a follow up Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) meeting in October 2004 in Mexico during the GFAR 2004 Statutory Meetings. The main objectives of the meeting were: a) to provide an opportunity for the civil society constituencies of GFAR to consult and exchange information on recent developments in agricultural research at global, regional and sub-regional level; and b) to strategize constituencies' participation/involvement in the ARD at all level within the context of GFAR 2004-2006 Business Plan.
- 1.3. International NGO Consortium in ARD: The meeting on NGOs in Mexico comprised of NGOs from the 5 regions of GFAR constituency, and they deliberated mostly on the role (added value) of NGOs in ARD and how to enhance NGO participation. The group identified a niche they perceived as the most appropriate for NGOs (in view of their staff size and their own programmatic demands). The main outputs of the meeting are highlighted below:
  - i. The niche: Covers four interrelated activities
    - Mobilize and recommend NGOs to represent and participate in partnership programmes with other actors at all levels from national to International.
    - Facilitate field to global level learning, documentation and publications of experiences from partnership programmes in AR4D
    - Monitoring and evaluation of field level impact and providing feed back to research

- Packaging lessons, good practices and challenged to inform decision-making and policy formulation/revision processes.
- ii. Vision: NGOs playing an active role, utilizing their comparative advantages and adding value at all levels of ARD.
- iii. Priority areas:
- Developing an International NGO Consortium in AR4D.
  - Developing/ strengthening partnerships.
  - Developing and participating in joint programmes with other stakeholders
- iv. The meeting also revised the mandate of the Regional focal point (RFP) to Regional Facilitators with a specific mandate to mobilize, catalyze and facilitate NGOs Constituency building.

1.4. Sub-Saharan Africa NGO Consortium in ARD: Subsequently, GFAR Secretariat carried consultations with GFAR Stakeholders, particularly NGOs and some members from GFAR Steering Committee, on how to best proceed with this initiative. It was decided that during the current year, GFAR should assist NGOs in Sub-Saharan Africa (SSA) to organize themselves and establish their own regional consortium, for a number of reasons, which include:

- i. There is a clear evidence that most of NGOs involved in ARD in SSA are far apart, less coordinated, and working in isolation, and there is no effective mechanisms for them to relate with the other NGOs;
- ii. Previous attempts to involve NGOs in FARA, ASARECA (Association for Strengthening Agricultural Research in Eastern and Central Africa) and SADC-FARN (Southern Africa Development Community-Food, Agriculture and Natural Resources ) have been on ad-hoc basis and partnership dominated by researchers<sup>2</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> CORAF/WECARD (Le Conseil Ouest et Centre Africain pour la Recherche et le developpement Agricoles / West and Central African Council for Agricultural Research and Development) is the only SRF that has NGOs and Farmers Organizations in its executive committee as full-fledged members

- iii. There has not been ample buying in from NGO constituencies as most “representatives” are selected on individual merit, based on past relationship with FARA and its SRF or individual researchers or Centers in the region
- iv. FARA has recently launched a SSA CP in which NGOs can play an active and important role

1.5. In light of this, FARA in conjunction with GFAR, supported the convergence of 32 NGOs from national and sub-regional networks, from 15 countries of Eastern Africa, Western Africa, Southern Africa and central Africa: Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania, Zambia, Zimbabwe, South Africa, Ethiopia, Sudan, Mali, Ghana, Nigeria, Cameroon, Senegal, Ivory Coast, and the Democratic Republic of Congo. Other NGOs representatives from the other regions of GFAR also attended the meeting, as observers, to mainly support their counterparts in Sub-Saharan Africa region.

2. OUTPUT

The Entebbe meeting deliberated on the development impact NGOs in SSA desired to see the consortium deliver, and came up with the following vision, mission and objectives:

2.1. Vision: An inclusive ARD system, generating appropriate innovations that result in sustainable livelihoods.

2.2. Mission: NGOs involved in ARD in Sub-Saharan African region collectively influencing agricultural research, policy and priority setting, and promoting innovative partnership approaches.

2.3. Objectives:

- Mobilize NGOs at different levels into a strong consortium with the capacity to engage in policy dialogue with the formal research systems, with the aim of achieving sustainable livelihoods;
- Facilitate access to and exchange of relevant information to influence agriculture research policies and priorities;

- Develop and promote a code of practice for ARD in SSA that protects farmers interests and secure their benefits;
- Build the capacity of NGOs to collaborate and participate more effectively in AD process and in resource mobilization.

2.4. Values/Principles: When relating and in partnership with other stakeholder institutions, the SSA-NGOs-C shall be guided by the following core values:

- Participate only in research that empowers research users;
- Transparency in strategic decision making;
- Participate only in research that maintains the human and eco-system integrity and safety;
- NGOs and their representatives to uphold and maintain accountable to their constituency; and
- Respect for diverse knowledge and innovations system.

2.5. Structure: The SSA-NGO-C in ARD

2.6. The mandates of the SSA-NGO-C in ARD

- Monitor and provide feedback on progress, impact, and challenges to research, through documentation, studies, and systematic M&E;

3. WAY FORWARD

3.1. Sub-regional and national mobilization: The meeting mandated the Sub-regional representatives with the task of mobilizing and creating awareness among the NGOs at the national and regional levels about the consortium.

3.2. Representation on Regional Fora: The meeting strongly recommended the nominated Chair and vice chairpersons to be officially introduced to FARA as official NGO representatives, and that FARA recognizes the chair as the legitimate NGO representative on FARA's Executive Committee.

3.3. Next meeting steering committee meeting: The meeting identified FARA as the most appropriate institution to host its steering committee meetings. GFAR will be requested to co-sponsor the follow up meeting to finalize the strategic plan and programme of work of the consortium. The meeting is proposed for the last quota of 2005, beginning September.
