

Agricultural extension coverage

Extension agents per 100 000 farmers, 1988

Worldwide data indicated that in 1989 only about 6 percent of extension personnel time was devoted to women farmers and 7 percent to young farmers and rural youth. There is also considerable regional disparity in extension coverage, as shown here.

*These data are for the United States only; incomplete data were received from Canada and Bermuda