

Percentage of women street food vendors

Women play the major role in street food sales, although in some countries they may be behind the scenes preparing food, rather than selling it.