Toktok Welkam to Vanuatu

Vanuatu is a Pacific island adventure far beyond any notions of cruise-ship ports and flashy resorts. Deserted beaches, ancient culture, remote and rugged islands and world-class diving are just a small part of the magnetism of this scattered 80-plus island archipelago. The islands are fondly known as the timeless islands, a place where time seems to halt, giving you enough moments to immerse yourself into what you want to do and to enjoy it to the fullest. Also called the isles of smiles – a quality which comes out naturally with everyone you meet and greet. You will be left captivated and will want to return again, be it for business or pleasure.

The category 5 tropical cyclone Pam which ravaged the islands on 12, 13 and 14 March 2015 left a trail of destruction never witnessed in the country's living memory. Help from the international community, the resilience and determination of its people is helping Vanuatu get back on its feet. Today, a little over a year on life is almost back to normal, thanks to the resilience, determination, and collective effort by every Vanuatu citizen – it is a collective feat which has left many nations around the world to admire in the people of this tiny nation. The nation is now ready to welcome its neighbors from the Codex family.

Welcome to the delegates of the Coordinating Committee for North America and the South West Pacific.

The Archipelago

The Vanuatu archipelago is situated in the southwest Pacific Ocean approximately 2,300 km off the east coast of Australia, between New Caledonia, the Solomon Islands and Fiji. It is comprised of some 80 islands and islets extending over 800 km north to south. The total land mass area measures 12,190 km², with an exclusive marine economic zone of 680,000 km². The largest two islands are Espiritu Santo (4,248 km²) and Malekula (2,053 km²). The administrative capital and commercial centre is Port Vila, located on Efate. The majority of the islands of Vanuatu are mountainous due to their volcanic origin, and there are eight active volcanoes. Based on geographical locality, the country is divided into six provinces, which are administered by local governments.

The people

According to the Vanuatu Statistics Office Vanuatu has a population of approximately 217,746 people, speaking 113 distinct languages and an even greater number of local dialects. For cultural diversity, Vanuatu is one of the most unique places in the world, thanks in part to 3,000 years of immigration as people from many Pacific countries flocked to this beautiful place. The majority of these immigrants came from Melanesia but the country has also been settled by the larger built, lighter skinned Polynesian people. Throughout the history of this country, these different groups have interacted in various ways, such as marrying between tribes or smaller groups being assimilated into the culture of larger and stronger groups. Sometimes this interaction was peaceful. At other times, it was violent. In either case, this interaction has created the amazing cultural diversity and history that draws so many visitors to Vanuatu today.

The archipelago has been voted the happiest place on the planet twice, by the "happy planet index" which is published by the New Economics Foundation (NEF).

Culture

Vanuatu is a land with a rich history, lush topography and many cultural secrets. Diverse culture, colorful dances and tribal rituals such as the famous bungy jump or 'nangol' are just a few traditions that are still practiced today. The bungy jump was invented in Vanuatu which other countries have now copied, modified and turned into a commercial activity.

The belief in black magic is intertwined with culture, creating a land shrouded in the strong belief that the spirits ancestors are alive and well and still invoke strong influence on everyday life. Village life dominates the population where most people live in groups of often no more than 50 people. But despite these small groupings, the people do sometimes come together for spectacular events. The 'Nekowiar' is a three day festival on the island of Tanna where extravagant gifts are given and up to 2,000 people dress in over-the-top make-up and costumes and dance to their hearts' desire.

Government

Vanuatu gained its political independence in 1980. The politics of Vanuatu take place within the framework of a constitutional democracy. The constitution provides for a representative parliamentary system. The head of the Republic is an elected President. The Prime Minister is the head of government.

Though Vanuatu is a full democracy, its political culture is different from that in most Western democracies, with strong elements of clientelism, and political debate that focuses strongly on the distribution of resources among communities rather than ideology. Governments typically comprise coalitions of numerous small parties.

Climate

Vanuatu is renowned for its beautiful subtropical climate with what seems like endless sunshine, clear blue skies and mild temperatures. Vanuatu's weather is enjoyable almost year round with only a few months of the whole year characterised by a cooler, drier climate. Summer in Vanuatu falls between November and March with average temperatures reaching 28°C. The summer months are hot and humid but are generally well cooled by the sea breezes. Cooler conditions occur during April to September and even then, temperatures still average 23°C. Swimming can be enjoyed year round as the water temperature only varies slightly from 22°C to 28°C.

The warmer weather and more humid months during December to April are when Vanuatu experiences the majority of its wet season with decent rain every month. Rainfall averages anywhere from 2-4 m annually on the northern islands.

Time Zone

Vanuatu time is GMT+11.00. Daylight savings is not in effect in Vanuatu.

Electricity

Voltage: 220-240 Volts. The Primary Socket Type: Australian AS-3112. The 3-pin plug is similar to that used in Australia, New Zealand, Papua New Guinea and Solomon. It has a grounding-pin and two current-carrying pins forming an upside down V-shape. The flat pins measure 6.5 by 1.6 mm (0.256 x 0.063 in) and are set at 30° to the vertical at a normal pitch of 13.7 mm (0.539 in). The wall sockets always have switches on them for extra safety.

Yasur on the island of Tanna is the most accessible volcano in the world. Travellers are guided to the crater where they can observe the spectacular eruptions right from beneath their feet. Air Vanuatu operates a daily flight to the island and the Entani Company operates group bookings and guided tours to the volcano.

The Mele Cascades

This popular and photogenic swimming spot is 10km from Port Vila. A series of clear aquamarine pools terrace up the hillside, culminating in an impressive 35m waterfall flowing into a natural plunge pool. A slippery path with guide ropes directs you to the top. There are toilets, change rooms and a cafe-bar with free wi-fi at the entrance. Go out on a local mini-bus (250VT), or take a guided tour with Evergreen.

Ekasup Cultural village

Futuna islanders talk about and demonstrate their traditional lifestyle at their kastom village. If you're not heading out to other islands, this is an excellent cultural experience close to Port Vila. Book through Nafonu Tatoka Tours. Friday night is 'Feast Night' (adult/child 3100/1550VT), with shells of kava, entertainment and buffet food. Book a day in advance.

Vanuatu Cultural Centre

This museum, library and cultural centre houses a well-displayed selection of traditional artefacts, including the tamtam (slit drums), massive outrigger canoes, ceremonial headdresses and examples of Lapita and Wusi pottery. There are photographic displays, and you can watch videos about traditional ceremonies and legends. Tours include a traditional instrument demonstration and sand drawing.

Hideaway Island

Just 100m or so offshore from Mele Beach, Hideaway Island isn't all that hidden but it's one of Vila's favourite spots for snorkelling, diving or just enjoying lunch at the island's resort (non-guests can access the marine park until 4pm). The free ferry puts out from in front of the Beach Bar regularly and once on the island you can snorkel in the marine sanctuary, join a dive tour and send a waterproof postcard from the world's only underwater post office.

Fishing

The waters around Vanuatu are home to impressive saltwater fish, including yellowfin tuna, swordfish, and striped marlin. The type of fish you can catch depends largely on the time of year, but there is something to be caught on the end of your hook all year long. Fish that can be caught in nearly any month include skipjack tuna and dogtooth tuna. Port Vila is especially known for being an ideal fishing spot in the region.

Shopping

Vanuatu is a beautiful island in the South Pacific that attracts visitors from around the world with its crystal clear beaches and tropical climate. Through the development of elite holiday resorts and boutique shops, the island is experiencing tremendous economic growth. Port Vila is home to many entertainment venues, including casinos and world-class restaurants. The real appeal of Vanuatu, however, is the exciting shopping opportunities. The duty-free shops at Port Vila offer a huge variety of items: European and East-Asian imports, clothing and local island arts and crafts.
