

Egypt: Eco-friendly roof gardens of Egypt. A TeleFood project helps a poor Egyptian family cultivate vegetables free of pesticides on the roof of their house. Produce improves family nutrition and surplus is sold to increase income and pay school fees.

Zambia: Helping AIDS orphans help themselves. Children at the Mansa orphanage are learning essential life skills, thanks to TeleFood.

Rice farmers work to install a new water pump bought with TeleFood funds in Cambodia. Thanks to FAO's TeleFood Fund, Tai Ny's family is one of 350 target farmer households who will benefit from the joint TeleFood and Special Programme for Food Security project.

After 14 years of absence because of armed conflict, a community has returned to its homeland in the Peruvian Andes and is learning again how to cultivate the land. FAO's TeleFood campaign is helping them.

Armenia: some of the refugees who are planting an orchard with fruit trees provided by a TeleFood project

Mali: Fish-smoking ovens ease women's burden. The women on Woywayanka have four new fish-smoking ovens thanks to TeleFood

In one of New Delhi's poorest communities, India, hunger is on the decline as a group of residents team up to produce their own food supplies with help from TeleFood.