

Igor Wawrzyniak – born in Gdynia, Poland, in 1979, educated at the University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn, Poland, double majored in Environmental Protection (M.Sc. Eng. in 2003) and Inland Fisheries (M.Sc. Eng. in 2004)

In 2007 graduated from Collegium of World Economy at Warsaw School of Economics (postgraduate studies in foreign investments, promotion of region and entrepreneurship)

From 2004 till 2006 worked as an inspector at the Regional Inspectorate of Marine Fisheries in Gdynia

Since 2006 an employee of the Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development, Department of Fisheries, currently in the position of chief expert

His responsibilities and activities include: cooperation in determining the directions of development of inland fisheries and aquaculture, participation in the establishment of normative acts on inland fisheries and aquaculture, promotion of sustainable and ecosystem-based management of freshwater living resources, national and international cooperation with inland fisheries units (commercial and recreational fisheries organizations, research institutes), representation of the Department of Fisheries in the European Union structures and international organizations, including FAO (COFI, EIFAAC)

Special adviser to the Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development on fish passes as a member of a team for the protection and development of living water resources (defining priorities of the restoration of fish migration routes)