

ASIA

Policy

Asia-Pacific Forestry Sector Outlook Study II

Scope

How forests and forestry in the region might look in the future?

Specific objectives :

- identify emerging socio-economic changes impacting forests and forestry;
- analyze probable scenarios for forestry developments to 2020 and
- outline the priorities and strategies to address the emerging opportunities and challenges

Approach

Analyzes forests and forestry in the context of larger societal changes

Identifies the probable scenarios of development to help understand the range of potentials and constraints

Weaving knowledge into development

Synthesizes and critically analyzes various streams of knowledge to provide a holistic picture of emerging changes.

Regional and global perspectives enable countries to develop adaptive strategies in the context of globalization.

Development of a region-wide network of planners to facilitate knowledge sharing and learning.