General Information

Republic of Korea

The Republic of Korea is situated on the Korean Peninsula, which spans 1 100 kilometers from north to south. The Peninsula lies in the northeastern part of the Asian continent, where Korean waters meet the waters of the Western Pacific. The Peninsula shares its northern border with China and Russia. The Peninsula encompasses a total of 222 154 km² – almost the same size as Britain. With rapid economic growth in the 1960s, Korea's role in the global community has become more significant, holding such international events as the 1988 Seoul Olympic Games, 2000 Asia Europe Summit Meeting, and 2002 FIFA World Cup-Korea/Japan. With a concentrated investment in science and technology, Korea ranks number one in the world in terms of the supply of high speed internet, which stands at 57.3 percent. Also, 70 percent of the population uses mobile telecommunications service, thus allowing the IT industry to thrive.

Gyeongju

The history of Gyeongju (located in the southeast of Korea) dates back to ancient times when the city was the capital of the Silla Dynasty (BC 57-935), the longest period of reign in the history of Korea. Today, more than a thousand years later, evidence of Gyeongju's rich cultural heritage is still evident in every corner of the city. Since the ancient relics are such an integral part of the area, the whole city has been designated as a UNESCO World Cultural Heritage under the name 'Gyeongju Historic Areas'. As such, Gyeongju is often referred to as a 'roofless museum'.

Clothing

The weather in Gyeongju during September/October is mild. Fall, a season for trench coats, is the best season to visit Korea because of clear skies and low humidity. Long slacks, long-sleeved shirts, and cardigans or jackets are ideal.

Mobile Phone (roaming)

CDMA cellular systems are widely used in Korea. SK Telecom and KTF are providing a SIM card roaming service to allow you to use your GSM subscription in Korea.
