

I'm off
on the most important mission
of my life.
Fasten my goggles
please.

Papa,
this time
I'm coming with you to save our

FUTURE FORESTS

There
goes that Bird again!

He's
my hero!

THE FOREST CALLS

Meet EarthBird.
He's a guy who understands
forests and trees.

He lives in the forest
with his daughter Sky.

I'm off on the most important
mission of my life.
Help me fasten my goggles. I need to blast off.

Papa! I think your feathers must be
tickling your brain.
You are behaving really strangely. And what are you wearing?

I'm off to save
the world's trees
and forests. I won't be home for dinner!

Relax, Papa.
What are you
so excited about?

But, Sky,
I simply must fly.
I must save the
forests now...so you
and your friends
will have them in the future.

Relax, Papa!
Why should we
worry about trees?
My future will be about things like
computers,
not trees.

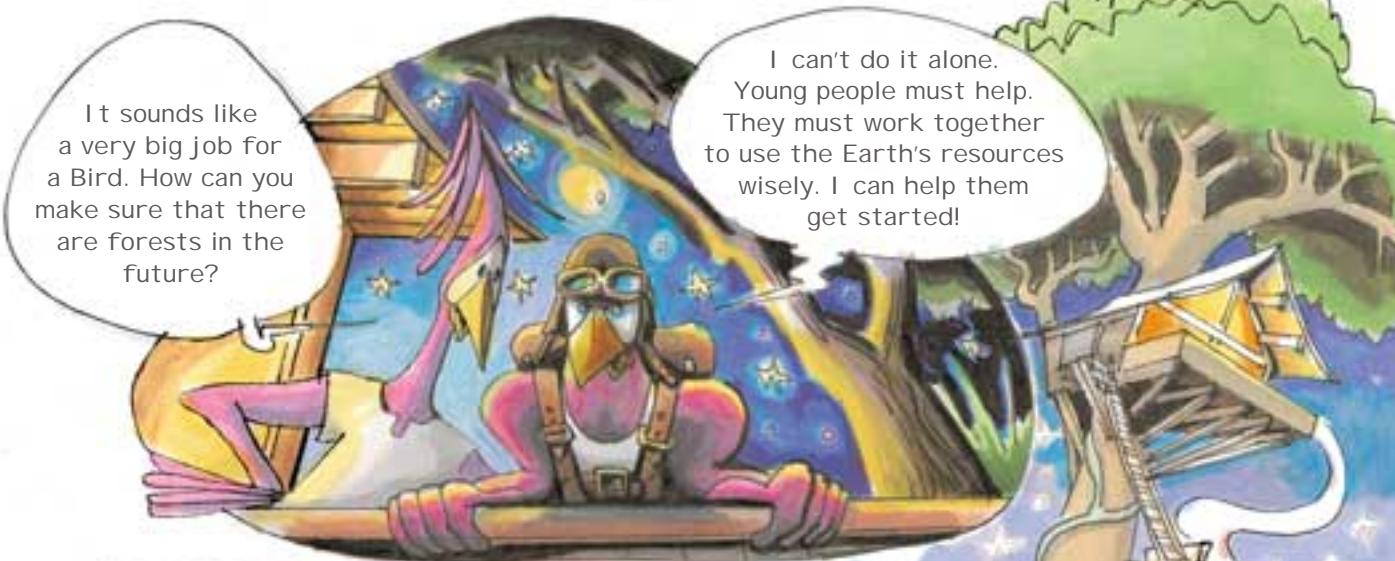

We won't live
in forests.
I will live in a city.

Yes, computers are part of your future but trees are too. Forests will always be important to everyone on this Earth! People in the cities as well as people in rural areas will need forests.

Wow! There are lots of things from the forest in here.

Everyone will need trees and forests in the future. They keep the Earth healthy.

It sounds like a very big job for a Bird. How can you make sure that there are forests in the future?

I can't do it alone. Young people must help. They must work together to use the Earth's resources wisely. I can help them get started!

To begin, we must first understand the challenges ahead. Follow me.

You will need my help too, Papa. I'm following you!

EarthBird's house