

Fighting against human rights abuses in fisheries: SFP's role and tools

Presented by Pedro Ferreiro
Deputy Director, Buyer Engagement

SFP's Role

- Work with major seafood buyers to drive environmental improvements
- Adapt strategies and recommendations to incorporate social elements, where applicable
- Build tools and collaborations where needed for an effective system

SFP's Limitations

- We are experts in the seafood industry and fisheries/aquaculture
- We have very limited experience in human rights abuse and social issues
- We need stronger collaborations with solution providers in the social space

SFP's Tool

Longtail tuna Indian Ocean

 IOTC  Thailand  Purse seines

 SUMMARY

 FISHERIES

 ANALYSIS

 SCORES

 FIPS

HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSE RISK

High

This indicates the potential risk of human rights abuses within this fishery.

SFP's Tool

- It's a first step for our partners and others
- Publicly available on www.FishSource.org
- Designed as a high-level indicator to help prioritize further investigation

SFP's Role and Tool

Feedback?

Ideas for collaborations?

