Zero Draft Text
RATIONALE
1. Young people are one of the keys to achieving sustainable development, in particular in developing countries, where the vast majority of them reside, often in rural areas. There is a large untapped reservoir of employment opportunities in the agri-food sector. Yet, poor access to land, natural resources, infrastructure, finance, technology, knowledge, and poor remuneration for agricultural and food workers turn youth away from agriculture and from remaining rural areas. As a result, many feel that their best option is to migrate, either to urban areas or overseas. Actions are needed to make the agri-food sector more attractive to young people and to promote their capacity to generate incomes.
2. The potential returns of investing in young people are boundless in terms of food security, poverty reduction, employment generation, as well as peace and political stability.
3. As the average age of farmers worldwide approaches 60, it is essential to develop systems, policies, and programmes that engage more youth in agriculture and agricultural professions. Youth engagement and leadership are linked intrinsically to countless aspects of the achievement of food security and good nutrition for all. Among these aspects, interlinkages with gender equality and women’s empowerment, the rural-urban continuum and innovative practices and technologies, including new uses of data and knowledge-sharing platforms, are particularly relevant.
4. The following recommendations are addressed to Governments (relevant ministries, national, regional and local authorities and institutions, as appropriate) in consultation with intergovernmental organizations, producer organizations, the private sector (including micro, small and medium as well as larger-sized-entities) and civil society.

5. They are envisioned as a focused, action-oriented document that will encourage public policies to foster enabling environments capable of tapping into the energy and skills of youth to improve food systems. In working towards this aim, the diversity, intersectionality, and context specificity of youth aspirations and experience across the globe should be recognized.

Additional comments Sweden
To emphasise a human rights-based approach.

A clarification along these lines would be appreciated.

Suggestion for a slightly stronger human rights-based approach.

Perhaps add unions as a space where youth should get increased influence?

Perhaps clarify further the need for gender and age disaggregated data?

The engagement should always be dignified.
Perhaps add something on youth's rights to join unions?
Important to maintain aspects in relation to young women.

Perhaps add ecosystems?

To highlight the need to enable girls and young women to stay in agriculture and food systems through equitable inheritance rights.

Emphasise sustainability, and furthermore, suggested addition in order to not only focus on youth starting their own cooperatives but to motivate existing cooperatives to focus on youth inclusion. There are examples of where establishing youth sections has had positive benefits, for instance in coffee cooperatives in eastern Africa.

Perhaps clarify who financial service providers are in order to exclude those seeking to take advantage of youth (eg. loan sharks and similar).

Support of entrepreneurship for youth in agriculture and food systems is a vital.

Traditional instead of indigenous to streamline with forexample with CBD, eg. the traditional knowledge, innovations and practices of indigenous peoples.
