

COMMITTEE ON WORLD FOOD SECURITY

Fifty-second Session
"50 Years of CFS:
Acting Together for a world free from hunger and malnutrition"

Rome, Italy, 21-25 October 2024

GUIDE TO CFS 52

Welcome to the fifty-second plenary session of the Committee on World Food Security (CFS 52), taking place between 21 and 25 October 2024 in a hybrid format in Rome, Italy.

The Committee on World Food Security (CFS) was established in 1974, and reformed in 2009, with the vision to be the foremost inclusive international and intergovernmental platform of the United Nations system for promoting food security and nutrition for all. Using a multi-stakeholder and inclusive approach, CFS Members and stakeholders develop and endorse policy recommendations and guidance on a wide range of topics relevant to food security and nutrition and aiming towards the universal realization of the right to food.

2024 marks the fiftieth anniversary of CFS as well as the twentieth anniversary of the endorsement of the CFS Voluntary Guidelines on the Progressive Realization of the Right to Adequate Food in the context of National Food Security. In this regard, the CFS 52 represents an important opportunity to take stock of what has been done and to discuss and analyze how to promote collaborative actions to address present and future challenges.

The Plenary will begin with opening statements by UN high-level representatives and a discussion on strengthening coordinated policy responses to the food crisis, which will consider the latest edition of the State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World Report, the CFS summary report on Collaborative Governance as well as a briefing on ongoing international initiatives against hunger and poverty.

During its 52nd Session, the CFS is set to endorse the following three documents: the Policy Recommendations on Reducing Inequalities for Food Security and Nutrition, the Action Plan to strengthen the uptake of CFS policy products, and the updated version of the Rolling Section of the CFS Multi-Year Programme of Work (MYPoW) 2024-2027.

Additionally, the Plenary will include a stocktaking session dedicated to monitoring the progress on the use and application of the CFS Voluntary Guidelines on the Progressive Realization of the Right to Adequate Food in the Context of National Food Security, as well as a session to discuss the implementation of the CFS Voluntary Guidelines on Gender Equality and Women's and Girls' Empowerment in the context of Food Security and Nutrition.

The CFS Plenary will present an opportunity to share views on the Report of the High Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition (HLPE-FSN) on Strengthening urban and peri-urban food systems to achieve food security and nutrition in the context of urbanization and rural transformation, and to discuss the key role of decent work in agriculture and food systems as well as the potential synergies and complementarities between CFS and the International Labour Organization (ILO) policy convergence work.

III. GLOBAL THEMATIC EVENT ON ADVANCING THE UPTAKE OF THE CFS VOLUNTARY GUIDELINES ON THE PROGRESSIVE REALIZATION OF THE RIGHT TO ADEQUATE FOOD IN THE CONTEXT OF NATIONAL FOOD SECURITY (for information and discussion)

The importance of the progressive realization of the right to adequate food in the context of national food security is reflected in the vision of the reformed CFS to “strive for a world free from hunger where countries implement the Voluntary Guidelines for the progressive realization of the right to adequate food in the context of national food security” (Right to Food Guidelines) [CFS 2009/2.Rev2]. The CFS Reform Document recognizes the human right to adequate food as fundamental to achieving food security.

The Right to Food Guidelines, endorsed by the Committee at its 30th Session in October 2004, take into account a wide range of important considerations and principles, including equality and non discrimination, participation and inclusion, accountability and rule of law, and the principle that all human rights are universal, indivisible, interrelated and interdependent. They have guided countries and other stakeholders in developing and adopting a wide range of measures - to guarantee the availability of food in quantity and quality sufficient to satisfy the dietary needs of individuals; physical and economic accessibility for everyone, including vulnerable groups, to adequate food, free from unsafe substances and acceptable within a given culture; or the means of its procurement.

The CFS 52 Global Thematic Event (GTE), coinciding with the 20th anniversary of the Voluntary Guidelines on the progressive realization of the right to adequate food in the context of national food security, will take stock of the use and application of the guidelines. The GTE will offer an opportunity to reflect on the progress made over the past 20 years, highlighting best practices and lessons learned, while also identifying remaining challenges and paving the way for further action towards the realization of the right to food.

The event is informed by the documented experiences and good practices of a broad range of stakeholders in the use and application of these CFS Voluntary Guidelines and will contribute to monitoring progress in implementing these voluntary guidelines at global, regional and national levels.

Session Rollout:

- a) Keynote presentation by Volker Türk, UN High Commissioner for Human Rights;

VIII. PROMOTING DECENT WORK IN AGRICULTURE AND FOOD SYSTEMS (for information and discussion)

Agriculture and food systems are a major source of employment in many countries, especially in developing countries, employing directly over 1.23 billion people worldwide. While rural transformation tends to reduce the number of those employed in primary production, it may provide job opportunities at intermediate and downstream stages of food supply chains.

However, despite their crucial contribution, workers in agriculture and food system have long been underpaid and undervalued, with limited access to adequate social protection, while facing occupational hazards, including exposure to environmental hazards, poverty and increasing food insecurity. Globally, two-thirds of the extreme poor are engaged in agriculture. A quarter of agricultural workforce is in extreme working poverty.

Addressing these issues and advancing decent work for all actors in the agriculture and food sector is essential to the transition to more sustainable, resilient and inclusive food systems.

With the overarching objective of eliminating hunger and malnutrition, ensuring food security and nutrition for all, and contributing to the progressive realization of the right to food, the Committee agreed to hold a CFS Plenary discussion in October 2024 on promoting decent Work in Agriculture and Food Systems to highlight the key role of decent work in agriculture and food systems from a right to food perspective. The session will also provide its platform for relevant stakeholders to discuss potential synergies and complementarities between CFS and the International Labour Organization (ILO) policy convergence work.

Session Rollout:

- a) Introductory remarks by Ambassador Nosipho Nausca-Jean Jezile, CFS Chairperson
- b) Keynote presentation by Mr Frank Hagemann, Director of the Sectoral Policies Department, ILO

 - Representative from PSM, Mr Chris Hogg, Global Head of Public Affairs (VP), Nestle.
 - Floor interventions.
- d) Delegates are invited to share views on the basis of the following guiding question:
 1. In your experience, what have been/are the challenges and good practices in advancing decent work in agriculture and food systems, and how the ILO policy guidance for the promotion of decent work in the agri-food sector can complement the recommendations included in the CFS policy agreements in addressing this issue?

At the end of the session, Draft Conclusions will be presented for discussion and endorsement by Plenary.

1. What concrete actions and strategies your government/constituency can implement to promote the uptake of the Voluntary Guidelines on the ground?
2. What forms of multi-sectoral collaboration and coordination mechanism are foreseen to promote policy coherence and reduce policy fragmentation among gender equality, food security, and nutrition agendas and related sectors?
3. How can stakeholders’ commitment be mobilized to drive context-specific operationalization of the Voluntary Guidelines?
4. How do you expect the Voluntary Guidelines to support policy makers as well as the activities of the UN and other international organizations at a technical, programmatic and operational level?
