

Professor Bhavani Shankar, HLPE-FSN Project Team Leader

Professor Bhavani is an applied economist working on research areas at the intersection of food, health and environmental sustainability. He is Professor of Food Systems and Health at the University of Sheffield, UK, and lead the “Food Consumption, Health and Sustainability” pillar at the University’s flagship Institute for Sustainable Food. He was previously Professor at SOAS, University of London where he was part of the core group directing the London Centre for Integrative Research in Agriculture and Health (LCIRAH) from 2010 onwards. He has also held appointments at FAO and at the University of Reading.