

Personal presentation

Rommel Arboleda

M.Sc Environmental Science student-University of Freiburg, Germany

rommel.arboleda.ruales@gmail.com

IPROMO

Environmental and economic issues to enhance mountain sustainability

Ormea – Pieve Tesino 5-19 July 2017

Education

- Currently finishing the Master's program of Environmental Science in the University of Freiburg, Germany
- Bachelor's degree in Environmental Engineering in the San Francisco de Quito University, Ecuador

Employment and main activities

- Upcoming internship with GIZ Nepal on REDD+, PES and Watershed management

Employment and main activities

- Past Work Experience: Environmental consultancy
 - Evaluation of the ecological integrity of aquatic and terrestrial ecosystems in the northern Andes of Ecuador for the Quito Water Fund (PES)
 - Setting up of an ecological baseline
 - Development of a monitoring protocol for Guardapáramos (Park Rangers)
 - Training of Guardapáramos on aquatic and terrestrial monitoring in high andean watershed
 - Ecological and water quality assessment of the water sources that provide drinking water to the city of Riobamba, Ecuador
 - Water sampling and laboratory analysis of different water quality parameters (ph, solids, OM, COD, BOD, etc.)
 - Soil sampling and analysis

Other interests (volunteer work, hobbies etc.)

- Local sustainability
- Environmental awareness
- Mountaineering and hiking and biking
- Soccer
- Food and Craft Beer
- Music

- Developing of a research proposal about the link between REDD+, PES schemes and watershed management for mountain ecosystems in Nepal.
- REDD+:
 - Traditional and alternative livelihood opportunities
 - Non-Timber Forest Products
 - Sustainable forest management