

World Soil Day
December 5th 2019
Symposium for life
and biodiversity

A central illustration of a tree with a thick trunk and many branches. The leaves are in various shades of green, yellow, orange, and purple. The roots are exposed and spread out, with small orange dots representing soil particles or microorganisms. At the base of the roots is a small globe of the Earth with a green sprout growing from the top.