

Mr. Fabio Feldmann

Mr. Fabio Feldmann has founded several non-governmental organizations for environmental protection and is since 1986 actively involved in the Brazilian Parliament. In 1990 he received the 'UN Global 500 award' for his enduring effort in advocating for environmental protection and sustainable development both at national and international level. In Brazil he has followed the policy implementation of several policies and initiatives aimed at reduction of emissions and global climate change mitigation.

In 2002, he became the Special Advisor to the President on matters related to climate change, and the personal representative of the then President Fernando Henrique Cardoso at Rio +10 in Johannesburg. Later he was involved in the creation of the Brazilian Forum on Climate Change and the São Paulo Forum on Global Climate Change and Biodiversity.
