

Subcommittee on Marine Environment and Ecosystems (SCMEE)

Scientific Advisory Committee (SAC)

General Fisheries Commission for the Mediterranean (GFCM)

Dear all,

Time is closing in for the forthcoming SCMEE meeting that is due to take place during May 10-12, 2004, in Malaga (Spain). Reminding the participants of this event, I enclose files of the Hotel list of Málaga and a registration form.

The annotated agenda of this meeting is as follows:

- 1) to continue updating information on incidental catches of protected species and on the by-catch of large migratory sharks.

Under this mandate, topics that addresses the impact of human actions on marine ecosystems are recommended. Information on the incidental catches of protected species, such as, turtles and cetaceans and the by-catch of large migratory sharks have been highly prioritised in past SCMEE meetings

- 2) with a view of progressively implement an ecosystem based approach to fisheries, update information on mapping of essential fish habitats

There is a need of developing quantitative ecosystem indicators and reference points for developing appropriate fishing management measures. Prior to this goal, it is fundamental to acquire information on essential fish habitats, understanding by this, the mapping of their spawning and nursery habitat.

- 3) to collect information on the protection measures applicable to driftnet and surface gillnet fisheries broken down by main basin and geographical sub-areas.

Information on the impact of driftnet and surface gillnet fisheries is considered essential so as to provide effective protection measures to these fisheries.

- 4) analyse the impact of surface and bottom longline fisheries on non-commercial fish species, birds and turtles

This topic is closely linked to the first point, but specifically addressing the surface and bottom longline fisheries affecting incidental catches of non-commercial species, birds and turtles.

- 5) report on the geographical occurrence, seasonality, extent and effects of mucilaginous algal blooms

Reports on this topic are welcome bearing in mind that the last SCMEE stressed the need of catalogue of phytoplankton toxic species and a common manual of methods and protocols.

- 6) provide a few simple, but clear species assemblages where trophic and biological links are well identified with a view of progressively implementing an ecosystem approach to fisheries

This issue is likewise related with the second point. Both stress the need of understanding the functioning of ecosystems to develop ecosystem indicators and reference points for developing future ecosystem based approaches to fisheries.

- 7) Among these tasks emanating from the mandates of the SCMEE, it also represents a forum for discussing the effects of fishing gear on the marine ecosystems. As such, documents on this topic are also welcome.

Once more, I strongly encourage participants to present documents addressing the issues above for fulfilling the objectives of the SAC recommendations.

Best wishes to all,

Alberto Garcia
