

TreeCities4MED- Webinar Series

Mediterranean urban forests and trees: an invaluable heritage to preserve and grow for the livelihood and well-being of present and future generations

The Silva Mediterranea Working Group on urban and Peri-urban Forestry in collaboration with different partners is pleased to announce the launch of the webinar series TreeCities4MED - Mediterranean urban forests and trees: an invaluable heritage to preserve and feed for the livelihood and well-being of present and future generations. The aim of this thematic webinar series is to address relevant issues related to the planning, design and management of urban forests and trees in the Mediterranean region for improved resilience of urban communities to the effects of global changes.

The webinars will be hosted on the FAO Zoom platform and will be held on a 2-3 months basis, starting in July 2020. Experts from the region and beyond will be invited to give presentations and contribute to the discussions in the different thematic sessions. Participation to the events will be open to all those interested in attending. Background documentation, programme and link to register to a specific webinar will be posted in due advance on the webpage of the working group (at this link).

The first webinar of the series will be held on Wednesday 1 July (17:30-19:00, Rome time). Advertisement and invitation to register to the event will be posted on the webpage of the working group (at this link) by Monday, 15 June.

For additional information, please contact: michela.conigliaro@fao.org, simone.borelli@fao.org

We look forward to your participation!

Silva Mediterranea Working Group on Urban and Peri-urban Forestry
